CALL FOR PAPERS

07-10 JULY 2025 | SESSIONS AT THE
INTERNATIONAL MEDIEVAL CONGRESS | LEEDS

LEARNING IN IBERIA, LEARNING FROM IBERIA

This call for papers invites contributions concerned with the Iberian Peninsula and neighbouring regions in the Mediterranean World. Papers can focus on any period throughout the Middle Ages. The thematic focus is concerned with this year's subject of "Worlds of Learning" (but not strictly limited to it), including, for example, clerical education, the formation of universities, manuscript production, exegetical endeavours, or preaching efforts.

Besides this thematic focus, these sessions have the goal to seize the opportunity provided by the IMC to bring together scholars from different scholarly and national communities, since many different groups are working on the Iberian Peninsula, and via these sessions we hope to encourage stronger interaction between these groups. This includes several nationally determined groups such as the strong German scholarship on Iberia (as united in the Arbeitsgemeinschaft Ibero-Mediaevistik) as well as several subject-related groups such as crusade scholars devoted to corresponding phenomena on the Peninsula. These sessions, therefore, have the goal to put various communities into conversation, and to generate new synergies between different scholarly traditions.

If you are interested in presenting in these sessions, please send a title and c.250 words abstract (in English) to the two organisers by 15 Sept. 2024.
